BABY'S PLEDGE.

(Written by S. A. H. for the CITIZEN.)
We girls were playing "Lady,"
Dressed in long skirts with trails,
And parasols, and hair done high,
And lady hats and veils—

We'd played at shopping, visiting,
Parties and church all day,
Until it seemed that really
There was nothing left to play.

But Elsie, who always had a plan
Beneath her clustering curls,
Said "Let's have a W. C. T. U.,
Like the one mamma goes to, girls.

"We'll have a 'Initiation,'
Like the college boys, you know,
And wear a badge like mamma's,
A pretty white ribbon bow.

And we will solemnly promise
To never, never drink,
And have a goat—and write a pledge—
And—that is all, I think.

"Now Kate, you bring the ribbon,
Get some of your auntie Lou;
And Dorothy, you bring the goat—
I guess Ted's dog will do:

"And I will bring the paper
On which to write the pledge,
I'll get a piece of sister's,
With the pretty golden edge."

So Katy brought the ribbon,
Her auntie wasn't there,
So she took some from her basket—
I guess she wouldn't care!

"Twas hard to capture Fido,
He didn't care to play,
He didn't want to be a goat,
And was bound to run away!

So we tied him to a chair leg,
And there he sat and growled,
And when we sang a temperance hymn
That goat just up and howled!

When Elsie wrote her pretty pledge—
"I'll never, never drink!"
That horrid goat just whisked his tail
And made her spill her ink!

We mopped it with our handkerchiefs
(I guess it will wash out),
And gave the goat a piece of cake,
So he wouldn't frisk about.

But on auntie's pretty carpet
Is a great big spot of ink!
We moved a rug to cover it,
It's nicer there, I think.

When baby Bessie came to play
She was our new acquit,
She signed the pledge, and wore her bow
So solemnly and cute!

We all had signed our names in full,
But baby just made O,
That doesn't stand for Bessie,
But we played it did, you know.

We all wished to be president,
And just were going to vote
When the ribbon broke—and it ended
In a wild chase for that goat!

Baby would not touch her mug
Of milk that night at tea;
She ate her bread and butter,
As sober as could be.

Papa said "what's the matter?"
And bent his head to hear,
And baby whispered, plainly,
"I see firsty, papa dear!"

And she said, when papa answered—
"Have a glass of water, then!"
"I've joined the double-sea to you,
An' I never can jink again!"

NORTHERN NECKS. S. CONVENTION.

The Northern Neck Baptist Sunday School Convention met with Irvington Baptist church in its 40th annual session May 25th, 1907. Convention was called to order by the clerk, and devotional services were conducted by Dr. Wayland F. Dunaway, which consisted in reading the 77th Psalm, prayer and song. Convention was then organized, Asa S. Rice being elected moderator and R. Fuller Huntton clerk and treasurer.

Brother J. M. Street, Geo. Y. Bradley and Moses Delano were announced the Committee to arrange the order of business.

Pastor F. W. Claybrook extended to the delegates and brethren assembled a most hearty welcome in fitting terms, which was fully responded to by Dr. Geo. W. Beale.

Committee on arrangements reported partially as follows:
Theme No. 4 to be taken up first, and subject No. 2 to be discussed at 2 p. m. Theme No. 4, "What relation does a well maintained Sunday School bear to the good order and Moral Character of a Community?" was presented in essay by John L. Beale. F. W. Claybrook opened the discussion and was followed by W. F. Dunaway. Adjourned with Doxology, and benediction by Dr. Dunaway.

At 12 noon, the annual sermon was preached by Brother J. M. Street from Gal. 6 and part of the 10th verse, and in connection John 9:4. The theme of the discourse was "Our Opportunities and how we should use them."

Evening Session.
Convention reassembled at 2:20, Moderator in the chair.

Brother E. F. Garner and J. W. Haydon, of the Methodist fold, and J. B. Hodgkin, of the Episcopal church, were recognized and invited to seats in the body.

Theme No. 2, "How may our Sunday School superintendents and pastors promote the interest and success of the meetings of this Convention?" Otho Rock the essayist being absent, T. C. Whitehurst opened the discussion, in which, Drs. Oliver, Kirk, Dunaway and Beale took part.

W. F. Dunaway, S. P. DeVault and Geo. W. Beale were the committee named to arrange program and order of exercises for the next session.

Theme No. 6, "Are the larger boys and young men drifting away from our Sunday Schools?" and if so how may they be won back, was presented in discussion by Brother S. P. DeVault.

Committee on arrangement reported further as follows: Sunday morning 9:30 to 10 Devotional services, 10 to 10:45 theme No. 1, 10:45 to 11:30 theme No. 3, 11:30 to 12:30 sermon by Dr. W. F. Dunaway. Adjournment.

Met at 2 p. m. From 2 to 3 theme No. 5, 3 to 3:45 Question box; answered by Geo. W. Beale and Dr. Oliver. Miscellaneous business. Adjourned at pleasure.

Convention was then adjourned with benediction by Brother Geo. W. Beale.

MORNING SESSION, 2ND DAY.
Convention was called to order at 10 o'clock and was led in prayer by Dr. Dunaway, devotional services having been previously conducted by Brother John L. Beale at the appointed time.

Theme No. 1, "Are the value and importance of the Infant Class duly esteemed and emphasized in our Sunday School work?" was well discussed by Geo. Y. Bradley, followed by A. S. Rice and J. M. Street.

"Ought our Sunday School teachers endeavor to keep their classes instructed as to our organized missionary, educational and benevolent work?" Theme No. 3 was presented by John R. Campbell in a well prepared paper. Following the reading of essay the subject was discussed by Brother W. T. Marsh.

At the time appointed Dr. W. F. Dunaway preached from 1st Cor. 1st Chapter and 21 verse, "For after that in the wisdom of God the world by wisdom knew not God, it pleased God by the foolishness of preaching to save them that believe." The sermon did us all so much good.

After sermon a collection was taken for Sunday School and Bible Board amounting to $17.04.

Adjourned with benediction by Dr. Dunaway.

THE CONFEDERATE REUNION.

BY MINNIE SEAY.
514 North 28th Street, Richmond, Va.

Get me my knapsack, Mary, and my uniform of gray;
Get my battered helmet, Mary, for I'll need them all today.
Get my canteen and my leggings, reach me down my rusty gun,
For I'm going out paradin' with the boys of '61.

Never mind them bloodstains, Mary; never mind that ragged hole—
It was left there by a bullet that was seeking for my soul.
Brush away those cobwebs, Mary, get the bonny flag of blue,
For I'm going out paradin' with the boys of '62.

These old clothes don't fit me, Mary, as they did when I was young—
Don't you remember how neatly to my manly form they clung?
Never mind that sleeve that's empty, let it dangle loose and free,
For I'm going out paradin' with the boys of '63.

Pull my sword belt tight, Mary; fix that strap beneath my chin;
I've grown old and threadbare, Mary, like my uniform, and thin.
But I reckon I'll pass muster, as I did in days of yore,
For I'm going out paradin' with the boys of '64.

Now, I'm ready, Mary, kiss me—kiss your old sweetheart good-bye.
Brush away those wayward tears—Lord, I didn't think you'd cry!
I'm not going forth to battle cheer up, Mary, sakes alive!
I'm just going out paradin' with the boys of '65.

Soon we'll all be paradin', Mary, in that land beyond the sky—
On that bright, celestial shore, where we'll forever cease to cry;
But before we do go, Mary, let's meet the boys once more,
And practice for paradin' on that bright and shining shore.

"SEND US WIVES," IS WYOMING'S CRY.

Thousands of Young Men in That State Are Anxious to Get Help-mates.

Tell us where and how we can get wives, is the cry that is going up from thousands of young men in the West. Mingled with the voices of the young fellows are the more mature voices of middle aged and even elderly men.

Because of the hardships attendant upon a life in the West in the early days a thousand men crossed the Missouri River where a single woman made the venture. This proportion was kept up for years, and the male population so greatly outnumbered the female that there were too few wives to go around.

In the Big Horn Basin, in Wyoming, is a long, fertile district called the Grey Bull Valley, from a river which flows through it. All the ranchers were wealthy, but only half a dozen had wives. Chinese used to take care of the houses in that country.

The ranchers met one day and 400 of them formed the Grey Bull Matrimonial Club. They advertised in Eastern papers for wives; telling of the advantages and praising the Wyoming country.

In two weeks the government had to send extra help to the Post Office. The postmaster was swamped with mail. All of it was addressed to the matrimonial club. That was nearly two years ago, and since that time there have been 400 weddings in the Big Horn Basin.

At Chadron, Neb., the Northwestern Railroad has an eating house at the depot. A dozen girls are employed there. It is in the heart of the cattle country, and hundreds of cowboys and ranchers live in that section. The manager of that eating house changes forces about once each month. The girls simply marry and become "queens" of big ranches or settle on homesteads with their husbands.

There never has been a time when there was not a dearth of women school teachers in Wyoming, South Dakota, Nebraska and other Western States. The teachers marry just as fast as they come into the new country. Two years is a long time for a teacher to be on school duty in the West. In a few years they are sending their own children to some new teacher. The public schools are great recruiting stations for wives for the ranchers.

At Laramie, Wyo., the young men formed a matrimonial club and placed advertisements in Eastern papers asking for wives. There are many girls in Laramie and they held a meeting to express their indignation that the boys should go elsewhere when there were unmarried girls in their own town.

The result was that the girls organized a club and placed counter advertisements wherever the men had advertised, advising girls to stay at home and calling attention to the fact that there were plenty of unmarried girls in Laramie.

INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER.
A newspaper that at the outset joins its destiny to that of its community, determined to win success for advancement of that town, to encourage the making for the town a better, and better and yet ever better place to live in and to do business in and be proud of, such a newspaper when passing years have demonstrated its purpose, must find that it has a unique place in the community—a place impossible of attainment by any individual or by any other institution.

No individual, no other institution, is given such responsibilities or must meet such requirements. In such a newspaper is concentrated a range of endeavor impossible to any individual and it takes on the quality of citizenship—a quality denied to the product of any other institution.—Kansas City Star.

It does not always happen that everybody is pleased at a Sunday School Convention, but it appeared to the writer that every face seemed to say as plain as words could express it "I have had a delightful, a glorious time."

I do say, there is no place in this beautiful Northern Neck where the Convention could have assembled under the same conditions and been so well attended. The delegates had no distance to go, and could easily make their way to and from the sessions of the body without getting more than slightly sprinkled—for it rained nearly all the time.

Some of us had feared that on account of the body's meeting at the extreme eastern boundary of the conventional territory, the schools would be poorly represented, but we were all surprised and delighted at the fair showing of representation.

Out of 40 schools, 31 reported and 28 of these were represented.

As to the effort of the church and community to entertain we had exercised no concern about the matter, for we knew too much about the Irvington people and how royally they could do it, but we had not dreamed of its being done on such a fashion—so much and such a delicious variety "that it seemed a charity to eat it."

But the delightfully charming homes to which these delegates were so courteously welcomed constituted a feature of the meeting the memory of which could hear all around us whispering of pleasure awakened by the sweet music of the unpretentious choir which interspersed the proceedings. But these people seemed as equally delighted with the Convention; so much so, that some were heard to say: "If the Convention wants to come back here next year we will entertain it again."

The Baptists were not alone in this display of generous hospitality and Christian courtesy but brethren of Methodist and Presbyterian faiths "bore well a part," and now in turn from us all an equally generous appreciation.

To all those who have never been so fortunate as to see Irvington and know its people all we have to say is, "come and see."

BACHELORS VS. BACHELOR MAIDS.
While Danville, Ill., lads and lassies are beginning to experience the undefinable sensations which scientists say are more apt to prevail during the spring seasons and are variously termed love and spring fever, according to the personality or mood, their elders, who are classed as "old bachelors," "old maids," or "bachelor girls," are also having a touch of the malady.

The girls and old maids in mass meeting petitioned the town council to place a tax upon unmarried men. The old bachelors in retaliation asked that human icicles should be taxed $50. At their next meeting the girls prepared and issued the following reply:

"We have read the reply of the Danville bachelors to our appeal to the City Council, in which they make a counter proposition to tax us $50 for every time we turn them down. We are willing to agree to this, provided that they will agree that the following proposition is a correct position for us to take:—We do not propose to 'turn down' any of them because they are ugly of face' but when one of them comes around to see us fastened to the end of a big cigar, having not the slightest semblance to a man, and who has the appearance of not being able to support himself, much less a wife, then out he goes."

It's too bad to see people who go from day to day suffering from physical weakness when Hollister's Rocky Mountain Tea would make them well. The greatest tonic known. 25 cents, Tea or Tablets. R. M. Sanders, White Stone, Ellis C. Richardson, Kilmarnock.

NEW POST CARD REGULATIONS.
The new postal law went into effect March 1st whereby it is permissible to send souvenir postal cards through the mails, containing writing on either side. Hitherto it has been permissible to send cards with the writing on the reverse side only.

Cards are often very handsome, and the reverse side is entirely occupied by the lithograph. To write on the reverse side of these cards is difficult because of the glazing of the surface, and also because it mars the beauty of the cards. By the new law, people will be permitted to write on the front of the card, in the space reserved for that purpose, as is permitted in foreign countries. The new law does not refer to the ordinary one cent postals issued by the Government, which have an entirely blank reverse side, for the sole purpose of the communication. No writing will be permitted on the address side of these cards.

Artist have no trouble in securing models. The famous beauties have discarded corsets and have become models in face and form since taking Hollister's Rocky Mountain Tea, 25 cents, Tea or Tablets. Ellis C. Richardson, Kilmarnock; R. M. Sanders, White Stone.

THE NEWSPAPER'S CLAIM.
A newspaper is in no sense a child of charity. It earns twice over every dollar it receives, and it is second to no enterprise in contributing to the up-building of a community. Its patrons reap far more benefits from its pages than its publishers, and in calling for the support of the community in which it is published it asks for no more than in all fairness belongs to it, though generally it receives less.—West Point News.

A Cough Medicine
Ayer's Cherry Pectoral is a regular cough medicine, a strong medicine, a doctor's medicine. Good for easy coughs, hard coughs, desperate coughs. If your doctor endorses it for your case, take it. If not, don't take it. Never go contrary to his advice.

We publish our formulas
We send alcohol
from our medicines
We urge you to consult your doctor

The dose of Ayer's Pills is small, only one at bedtime. As a rule, laxative doses are better than cathartic doses. For constipation, biliousness, dyspepsia, sick-headaches, they cannot be excelled. Ask your doctor about this.
